THE WEEKEND TRAINING PROGRAM 2005 - 2006

The Center for Group Studies offers a Weekend Training Program as an alternative to our on-going Training Program. It began in 1990 as an offsite pilot project in group training to students from all over the world outside of New York City. The weekend program was founded and designed under the co-leadership of Dr. Alice Brown and Dr. Lena Furgeri and has expanded to include local New York students.

This program provides training in modern group process: an integration of traditional methods and modern techniques developed by Dr. Louis Ormont, a licensed psychologist with over 40 years of experience leading groups. Our approach is psychodynamic and interactive with particular emphasis on interventions for difficult and pre-oedipal personalities.

PROGRAM OF STUDY

The three-year Training Program, culminating in a Certificate of Completion or Graduation, consists of the following four training components:

1. Training Weekends

We offer three training weekends each year and a total of nine weekends are required to meet the criteria for Certification. Each weekend consists of psychodynamic process groups (experiential and didactic learning), lectures and/or workshops, and a colloquium with Louis Ormont and Joan Ormont.

2. Course Work *

The curriculum consists of nine blocks of readings and combines a guided and monitored reading program along with the experiential Training Weekend component. Each student is assigned a faculty advisor to work with in person, by correspondence, email, and/or by telephone. A faculty advisor is assigned to each student for a 3-block segment, approximately one year. Each student keeps an ongoing log of his/her reactions to the readings, tapes and other experiences, to which the student's faculty advisor responds.

3. Supervision

Four supervision segments are required, which take place during the second and third years, after the completion of readings blocks 1 through 3. Each segment consists of six one-hour sessions with an assigned supervisor.

4. Final Project (optional)

The final project includes a written paper on an approved topic, which is then presented before faculty and students.

* Nine blocks of readings ( each block consists of sixteen readings and may be completed in eight weeks or more)

Block	1	The Essence of Modern Group Process
Block	2	Forming a Group
Block	3	Introduction to Group Resistances
Block	4	Transference/Countertransference Issues in Group
